CV of Failure

This idea, CV of failure, is not mine. I first noticed this idea when I was doing my exchange in University of Chicago. One of my classmates in PHYS323, Mr. Chuyang Ding was hosting a personal website. I saw a CV of failure for the first time on his website.

Indeed, though I may have sucess from time to time in my life, failure is an inevitable major theme of it. I find it much easier to remeber the failures I experieced than trying to recall some unimportant sucess. Everytime I do that, the feeling of humiliation comes back to me, as if it has never dissipated in time.
